WHEREAS, Article XI, Section 1 of the Constitution of the State of New York provides the legal authority given to the Board of Regents and to the Legislature to provide for the maintenance and support of public schools;

WHEREAS, the New York State Board of Regents and the State Education Department exercise the powers and functions delegated to them through the Education Law;

WHEREAS, the Board of Regents and the State Education Department establish policy by adopting rules and regulations within the limitations of State law;

WHEREAS, said regulations have the authority of law unless they are overruled by decisions of the State’s courts;

WHEREAS, Article IV Section 3 of the Constitution of the State of New York outlines the powers and duties of the Governor;

WHEREAS, Article IV Section 3 of the Constitution of the State of New York does not grant the Governor of the State of New York control over the funding, nor the establishment of Educational Policy;

WHEREAS, the Governor of the State of New York, in his “State of the State” speech this year, outlined a variety of reforms to New York State Educational policy which, if the legislature succumbs to the reforms, the Governor will elect to fund a 4.8% increase in the educational budget, up from a 1.7% increase if the legislature does not elect the reforms;
